

The Narconon[®] Network continues to expand with two new centers just opened!

The unprecedented expansion of the Narconon network is evidenced by the grand openings of two major centers within one month: Narconon San Diego (California) and Narconon Stone Hawk (Michigan).

Having filled their first center in Newport Beach to capacity, Narconon Southern California had to find another facility to meet the ongoing demand. A wonderful site was located in Warner Springs near San Diego. As of the date of their grand opening, Narconon San Diego was already filled to capacity!

Over 200 people attended the Grand Opening. Gerry Marshall (President of Narconon Southern California) as Master of Ceremonies introduced Don McKinney (representing Congressman Issa), Tommy Thompson (representing Assemblyman Haynes), Bill Langill (a local pastor), and Myrtle Cassell (head of the local community resource center). Clark Carr, President of Narconon International, enlightened the visitors regarding the origins of the program and the workability of the technology developed by author and humanitarian L. Ron Hubbard. Heartfelt speeches were given by Raul Schroeder, a graduate of the program and Mrs. Smith, the mother of a graduate. Many neighbors attended, toured the facility and expressed their appreciation of the program.

Narconon Stone Hawk is located on a lake just north of Battle Creek, Michigan. The 100-bed facility opened in February 2003, and at the time of the Grand Opening on June 28th, already had 45 students on the program!

Per Wickstrom, President of Narconon Stone Hawk, as Master of Ceremonies introduced the various participants, including Mike Nofs and Lorence Wenke, both representatives from the Michigan State House of Representatives. They presented a proclamation signed by the Governor of Michigan declaring June 28, 2003 as Narconon Stone Hawk Day. Greg Moore, representing Nick Smith (U.S. Congressman) also spoke, as did Dr. Stephen Robinson (the facility's medical doctor), Kate Wickstrom (Stone Hawk's Executive Director) and their first graduate, Aaron Mayer.

After the visitors toured the facility and enjoyed the barbecue and music, they witnessed a ceremony by a Native American medicine man who blessed the land. Immediately thereafter three hawks circled overhead, followed by a bolt of lightning and a downpour of rain onto the center, thoroughly cleansing the newly blessed land! It was very a dramatic closing of a very special day.

Given that Stone Hawk will soon be filled to capacity, Kate and Per already are working on acquiring a new facility which they are intending to open in December.

The local ABC TV station filmed the ceremony and interviewed various executives and the graduate who spoke. The 3-minute clip was the news leader that evening, thus letting thousands more know about this welcome addition to their community.

With these two new centers, many more addicts will now become drug-free, ethical persons who contribute to society.

UNITED STATES

Northern California This center is also undergoing major expansion, having recently acquired a second facility to meet growing demand. This 18-bed facility is located in the city of Placerville, some 30 miles east of Sacramento.

Atlanta, Georgia Busy working in the community with their drug prevention program, they recently hooked up with an NFL football player who runs a summer camp for kids and delivered drug education lectures to them. They are also conducting a pilot program delivering the Learning Improvement Course to inner city kids at a local housing project.

Arrowhead In addition to their 150 students, 139 staff members, and their drug prevention lectures (exceeding 15,000 people so far this year), they are extending their responsibility deeper into the community. Peggy Bunda, is now the president of the McAlester Business and Professional Women's organization.

LATIN AMERICA

Brazil Narconon Brazil has recently moved into a beautiful and spacious new facility! The story behind this is a true Narconon success. Mother Sylvia Ostlund, seeing the results her son is achieving on the program, started promoting the Narconon program throughout the city (Sao Paulo). Through her very important contacts, she found the new building and did the necessary fundraising to support its first year there. A grand opening of the new center is forthcoming. Congratulations to Directors Marcelo and Desiree Cardozo.

Argentina A few months ago, Pablo Rodriguez, Director of Narconon Argentina, along with his team, completed the renovations needed so that their facility can now deliver the full Narconon program.

Cancun, Mexico This famous vacation city now has a new Narconon city office! Francisco Boneta is consulting, translating the First Step booklets into Spanish and looking for a facility to deliver the full program.

A couple of years ago a judge in Philadelphia "sentenced" a Narconon enrollee to deliver Narconon services in the local jails! She likes the results and is spreading the word about Narconon.

In June I attended a conference of police and city officials in Philadelphia and enlightened them regarding the Narconon program, especially drug prevention. I then met with the Philadelphia Director of Mental Health who is now helping us with the paperwork needed to gain state recognition for the Narconon method.

I also visited the medical center in New York City where Dr. Apryl McNeil is putting firemen and rescue workers who worked at Ground Zero through the detoxification program developed by L. Ron Hubbard. The results are spectacular!

Success from the Staff

"My career has been pretty varied--music teacher, church worker, legal secretary, and then owner of a dating service! Having decided to sell the business, I then researched my career options. After interviewing at Narconon International, I realized how much I wanted to be part of a group that was playing a great role in the saving of lives and the salvaging of the planet. I have been with this great team for over two months now and am very impressed with the people, and also with the programs themselves. I am now posted in the public outreach area and feel that I can really make a contribution.

If you feel you could do more to help your fellow man, consider working with the Narconon network.

Please feel free to call me.

Love, Marcia Powell

There are so many fantastic, life-changing success stories every single week, and from different parts of the world, that selecting only one is quite difficult! Here's a great one from a graduate.

Narconon saved my life! I was on a downward spiral from my drug/alcohol use and pretty much accepted that there was no answer for my life.

The sauna was great, it cleaned my body of all the drug cravings and my mind is totally clear.

I have finished my program now and I feel like a completely new person. I feel great and life is worth living again.
